

Spa Commercial

A young woman in her late 20s just left the office, while walking on the street she looks around to realise she is not in her element, things slow down.

Shots of noisy city elements(car passing, men shouting, etc..)

As she walks forward,the scenery around her changes maintaining framing and becomes more clear,soothing and colourful.The relaxing sounds take over our ears, we are enchanted.

The camera detaches itself from the character and floats away while character stays still. We experience the forest environment.